MEDIA RELEASE

Water Police assist the Blue Wiggle to launch National Career Development Week 2009

Issued at 5.30am Wednesday 11th March, 2009

Want to live out the dream of policing on the water?

Like to drive boats and spend your career policing the beautiful waters of NSW? Fancy yourself in forensics or as a criminal investigator? Perhaps you'd like to work with dogs or horses, in a patrol car or on a motor bike.

Or maybe you're just looking for a new career or a job that's more secure than the one you have now.

If you are looking for excitement, challenge and reasons to feel proud, you can do all this and much more as a professional Police Officer with the New South Wales Police Force.

The NSW Police Force is proudly participating in today's launch event for the 2009 National Career Development Week. This week provides an opportunity for the NSW Police Force to showcase career and employment opportunities within our organisation.

The NSW Police Force provides secure, well paid, long-term employment with more than 100 varying career opportunities. If you have an interest in policing, or if you have a career dream just like Anthony, the Blue Wiggle, who would love to work in the Water Police, then you can view any upcoming NSW Police Force Recruitment Event's by logging onto the National Career Development Week Website - www.ncdw.com.au.

The NSW Police Force Recruitment expo's give members of the public the chance to chat with police from general duties and specialist commands and discuss opportunities with members of the Police Recruitment Branch.

New police officers have the chance to gain professional skills from day one, all of which will lay the groundwork for an exciting career path for their future.

A career in policing also offers access to the latest crime solving technology and the opportunity to work in units as varied as the Marine Area Command (Water Police), Air Wing, Bike Patrol, Detectives, Dog Unit, Forensics, Highway Patrol, Mounted Police or Rescue Squad to name a few.
