Competition explores career opportunities

A CAREER "bucket list" competition is being held in Mount Gambier to celebrate National Career Development week.

Schools will be provided with a bucket full of occupations and students will pick a career to research and put together a presentation.

Alternatively, if students know what they would like to do as a career they can choose to do their presentation on a topic of their choice.

Judges will look for entries that are innovative, creative, make them think and bring a smile to their face.

Adults are also invited to take part.

Their Career Bucket List is less about people getting a promotion or getting ahead with their career, and more about the things they have always dreamed of trying and the experiences they want to have in their career.

Cash prizes are on offer as an incentive to take part in the competition and entries will be displayed at the annual Rotary Career Expo and on the Career Development Centre website.

Entries close at 5pm on May 31.
