Still time to learn

If you missed the fifth successive National Career Development Week (NCDW) and its 600 events around Australia (the last day is tomorrow) don't despair, there are events that continue throughout the year. To find an event to suit your needs visit the NCDW website. There are small events for local high schools and colleges as well as listings of events held by some of the big universities. Highlights include the Health Sciences Career Fair at the University of Wollongong on May 31, the Billy Blue College of Design Open Day on September 17 and an MBA and Postgrad expo in Sydney on September 6.
